Dear Parents and Carers

Hello Yellow Non-Uniform Day
Friday 9th October 2020

As we announced yesterday, next Friday we are hosting a non-uniform day. The event is being run by our Student Leadership team in support of the Young Minds charity and their Hello Yellow campaign on World Mental Health Day (9th October 2020). The campaign is designed to support children and young people's mental health and brings them together to show them they are not alone, particularly during the difficult times we are facing.

Students can pay a voluntary contribution of £1.00 to come to school in non-uniform, wearing something yellow. Please be mindful that clothing and footwear should be sensible and inoffensive, and should uphold the school's 3R values. We would also like to remind parents and students that our policy regarding jewellery remains unchanged due to health and safety reasons.

Students who have a timetabled practical PE lesson next Friday (week B) must wear appropriate clothing for this as these lessons will go ahead, but are welcome to still take part in the Hello Yellow theme.

100% of money raised from the voluntary contributions will be donated to Young Minds. You can find out more about the charity here and about the Hello Yellow campaign here!

We look forward to the day and hope to raise as much money as possible for such a valued cause, so every donation will be greatly appreciated.

Throughout next week, there will be a series of events held in support of the campaign, so please keep posted for updates on our social media!

We hope that this will be another great event to bring awareness to such an important cause.

Yours faithfully

Mr R Briggs
